SHORT PARAGRAPHS.

AGES OF THE PRESIDENTS.

The youngest man elected President to the United States is Gen. Grant, who will be 47 years old on the 22d of April next. Washington was 57; John Adams, 61; Thomas Jefferson, 57; Madison, 58; Monroe, 58; John Quincy Adams, 58; Andrew Jackson, over 60; Martin Van Buren, 57; William Henry Harrison, 67; James K. Polk, 49; Zachary Taylor, 63; Franklin Pierce, 48; James Buchanan, 65; and Abraham Lincoln, nearly 51, when they were elected.

DEATH IN THE SNOW.

BURLINGTON, VT., March 10th.—On Friday last as some men were cutting a road through a snow drift near Panchow's Corners, Vt., they came upon the frozen bodies of Mrs. Emmons, aged 60 years, her daughter and grand son. The old lady had fallen, overcome with the snow and cold, about half a mile from a farm house, through the window of which a light was shining all night, while her daughter had approached a little nearer, and the boy was within two rods of the window. He had evidently dragged himself some distance on his hands and knees.

THE QUEEN OF BELGIUM.

The Queen of Belgium is a handsome woman, with a very regular, though slightly too fleshy face, a small mouth, beautiful teeth, a very clear complexion, and luxuriant hair. Her hands are very small, but she possesses much physical strength. Her countenance bears a very strong resemblance to her ill-fated cousin and brother-in-law, the late Emperor Maximilian. Her character is very energetic, and her husband, the King, is believed to be only Lieutenant Governor in his house. The Queen's great passion is riding on horseback. She prides herself on her skill in taming wild horses, and often plays, riding-whip in hand, in the court-yard of the palace of Lackens, with half a dozen of her favorite horses, without bridles and saddles, causes them to come to her and take pieces of bread from her hands, and acts the equerry with as much skill as relish.

AFFECTING DEATH-BED SCENE.

The Trenton (N. J.) True American says: Mr. Eckerson, who died of hydrophobia, at Saddle river, had to be held by five or six men, and during his lucid intervals begged to kiss his wife, who was very ill in another part of the house. Just before his last dreadful fit he pleaded so piteously to kiss her once more before he died, that, risking the consequences, they took her to his bed. The dying man carefully wiped the froth from his face, and compressing his teeth tightly to prevent any of the poisonous salvai exuding from his mouth, kissed the lips which he had so often pressed in love and affection, and then resolutely turning away, after bidding her adieu forever, relapsed into a dreadful paroxysm and died.

SUGAR AND TOBACCO WANTED.

A few days since, says the Augusta Press of Friday, we urged Georgia planters to raise an extra quantity of sorghum this year, in order to prepare for the high prices certain to be caused by the revolution in Cuba. Already the effects of this revolution are to be seen. The telegraph yesterday announces that the export duty on tobacco and cigars have been increased, and that the duty on sugar has been increased one dollar and a quarter per hogshead. This will affect the market in this country. If our people will be warned in time the tobacco planters of Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina will pitch a large crop of the "weed," and the planters of the cotton States will literally make the land flow with sorghum, which, in these rough times, will be a good substitute for "milk and honey."

PREACHING COLD HELL.

An old missionary, who had been many years in Labrador, was at length compelled to return, his influence all gone and his mission entirely fruitless. A young man who was just fledging into the ministerial status was appointed in his place, and before he went to his assignment he thought he would visit his venerable predecessor and learn from him the cause of his trouble in the land of icebergs. The old man received him very cordially.

"My venerable brother," said the young man, "I wish you to tell me the cause of your difficulty that I may avert a like failure. Must I preach them a hell that is hot?"

"No, my young friend," said the old missionary, laying his hand on his brother's arm, "no, that was the rock I split on. I preached it very warm to them, and they rather liked the idea of going there. I think if you preach them a hell fifty degrees colder than Labrador you will drive them all to repentance."

THE SENATORIAL CAUCUS.

After the Republican Senatorial caucus, which met Tuesday, had disposed of the report of the sub-committee appointed to revise the standing committees, it was suggested that a committee of five should be appointed to confer with a similar committee on the part of the House, with a view of deciding the necessary measures to be acted upon at the present session, so as to make the session as short as possible. The following Senators were appointed to consider the matter and report to the next caucus: Messrs. Sherman, Edmunds, Trumbull, Stewart and Pool. The committee, this afternoon, after a brief session, agreed upon the measures, some five in all, that, in their judgment, it is necessary to pass, all of which, they think, can be done within at least thirty days. Among the measures which they recommend are the bill to repeal the Civil Tenure Act, and the bill to strengthen the public credit, which Johnson refused to sign, and the Hooper bill relating to national banks.

The House Committee will be appointed to-morrow, when a joint session will be held, and the action of the Senate Committee laid before them for adoption. The opinion was nearly unanimous to-day, in caucus, that Congress ought not to remain here longer than thirty days.

CHRISTINA NILSSON.

Christina Nilsson is to receive two hundred pounds for every night she sings in London. Malibran received at the Drury Lane £150 a night. Lablache received as much, and fifty pounds for a single singing lesson which he gave to Queen Victoria. The second benefit of Taglioni, the celebrated ballet dancer, at St. Petersburg, yielded her the enormous sum of 51,000 rubles, beside a large number of costly presents. Paganini gave violin lessons and charged 2000 francs for each. Hummel, the famous pianist, left to his heirs 375,000 francs in cash, and a very large number of costly presents, which he had received at the different courts of Europe. Among these presents were 26,000 diamond rings of the highest value, thirty-four golden snuff-boxes, and 142 splendid watches. Mario and Alboni, when at the height of their fame, never sang for less than 2000 francs, and Tamberlik received 2500 francs. Hertz and Thalberg, each brought home, from one trip to the United States, upward of $300,000. Bogumil Dawison received from Manager Woltersdorf, in Berlin, $10,000 for thirty performances, and in the United States he made $60,000. Rossini was once offered 1,000,000 francs by an enterprising French manager, if he would himself sing, for six months, "Figaro," in his opera, The Barber of Seville. Rossini declined the offer.

HORRIBLE SCENE ON A SCAFFOLD.

On the 5th inst., four negro men were hung for murder, somewhere in Princess Anne county, Md. The New York World's correspondent thus sums up the awful scene: All the condemned men now came forward, and the caps were placed over their faces, and the noose around their necks. They were pinioned in a very bad fashion. The trap was then sprung and they all fell through the door, writhing and kicking in a horrible manner. The body of Rounce was so heavy that he broke his neck instantly. Baily died with a short struggle. Wells also died almost instantly. But the death of Wilson, poor wretch, was the most heartrending and terrible. The noose about his neck was very loose and he did not lose his consciousness when he fell, but knew for four or five minutes where he was sprung through the trap. He broke loose the pinions which tied his arms, and held himself up by the body of Anderson, next to him. There was a cry of shame from every one present. Finally, the dying negro hoisted himself up like a gymnast, fully six feet to the platform of the scaffold, and a man ran up and kicked him off, when he swung to and fro, the most terrible groans coming from his throat all the time like a wild beast. Then he hoisted himself again on the platform, when the same brute ran up on the scaffold, and pressing the noose choked him fiercely, all the while the boy struggling fiercely with him. A universal wail of sorrow went up from every black throat at him. After choking him, the boy was swung off again to die like a dog. The bodies were buried in the Almshouse burying grounds, Princess Anne.

THE COPPER BILL.

The Swindle Involved in Its Passage.

As an illustration of the swindle involved in the copper bill which Congress passed over President Johnson's veto, the New York World says:

1. It was shown that the duties it imposed on imported copper and copper ores would virtually prohibit the importation of those articles, and thus strip the treasury of whatever revenue it now derives from them.

2 It was shown that the shipping interests of the country would be seriously affected by this virtual prohibition of the foreign copper trade.

3. It was demonstrated that such prohibition would tend to destroy the business of smelting copper ores in connection with a smaller amount of the imported article—a business which has hitherto yielded the largest share of the copper production of the country!

4. It was made perfectly plain that the effect of the bill would be to enhance by nearly seventy per cent. the cost of blue vitriol, thus discriminating against the great manufacturing industries in which that article is extensively employed.

5. It was shown that the bill, which is intended to give a monopoly of the copper mining business to the owners of watered stock in the Lake Superior mines, would impose a tax of five or six millions upon the people of the United States, every dollar of which is to be paid to the speculators in those watered stocks.

A ROYAL BEAST.

Mementoes of Queen Isabella's Obscurity.

The invoice taken by three notaries public, on the night after the flight of the Queen of Spain, of the objects contained in her apartment, as well as those of her husband, Don Francis de Assisas, will shortly be published in Madrid. Some French correspondents, who have been permitted to inspect it, say that it will be certain to create a great sensation. Neither the Queen nor the King Consort possessed a single book except some livres d'heures (prayer books). But on the table of Don Francis there were found large numbers of obscene photographs, many of which represented distinguished royal and imperial personages in extremely lascivious attitudes. Another remarkable discovery was that King Francis did not possess a single weapon. In the apartments of this successor of Ferdinand of Castile and Charles the Fifth, there was not found a sword, a dagger, a musket, but only a small toy pistol. As the King was known to be a great bon-bon eater, the fact that all his drawers were filled with boxes of sugar plums, did not excite much surprise.

Queen Isabella's artistic taste had manifested itself in various ways. She had pasted miserable daubs representing saints on some of the finest Murillos hanging in her apartments, and steel engravings of the nun, Petrocinio, had been pasted on the immense Venetian mirrors with which the Alcazar at Madrid abounds. A poorly painted full size portrait of Pope Pius the Ninth had been hung over a precious painting by Velasquez, and the King Consort had been vandal enough to shoot with his toy pistol at a target, which was no other than a historical painting by Goni. When the notaries public had performed their curious task, they expressed themselves in terms of the most intense indignation at the discoveries which they had made. They compared the members of the royal family with certain unclean animals, and said that those who talked about the return of the Queen and her miserable husband to Madrid, should be taken to the Alcazar and allowed to see the private apartments of Isabella and Don Francis de Assisas, when they would be loudest in demanding that such persons should not be permitted to occupy the Spanish throne.

A WILD AFFAIR.

An Amazonian Demirep and her Negro Lover.

A negro named Odell, a former resident of Knoxville, lately got into difficulty in that city, and attaching himself to what the Press and Times elegantly calls a white "Amazonian demirep," (though she was a very long way from demireputable, which we take to be the meaning of "demirep,") fled to the mountains, and the pair raided upon the inhabitants of the surrounding country indiscriminately. One day last week, after their depredations had become intolerable, the citizens combined to capture them. The negro having fortified himself in a steep, narrow and almost inaccessible pathway, where rocks were plenty, the party were compelled to attack him under very perilous circumstances. But they had determined to capture him, and so they marched on his position in Indian file. A savage fight ensued, pistols being the weapons of the assailants and rocks furnishing Odell with ammunition. What followed is thus told by the Press and Times of Monday: The colored chap dodged their balls far better than they could dodge his pebbles. He was wounded in three or four places before their shooters were emptied, but two of them were placed hors de combat, one by having his skull stove in with a ten pound rock, and another having his hand smashed. One of their horses had an eye knocked out. When a cessation of firing occurred, by reason of their empty barrels, the colored scoundrel drove them down the path in promiscuous ruin. He pursued them vigorously. The horse of the gallant Gass was left behind and became the lawful booty of Odell. The conquering hero seized upon him, of course, and while he was arranging the disordered caparisonment of Rosinante, that animal, unused to such rough handling and frightfully snuffing and snorting, commenced a retrograde movement, which he continued until he tumbled over a precipice several feet deep. Odell's hands were tangled in the gear, and he went over also. Gass, who observed with much satisfaction the catastrophe from a distance, rushed up, and having his pistol fully loaded, sent three bullets through Odell, but, unfortunately, one of them shot his horse in the head also. The party returned in triumph to their friends, not deeming it worth while to pursue the female through the mountains. The heroic Odell and his captured horse were left side by side at the bottom of the ravine, to be swept into the Tennessee by the next freshet.

BRECKINRIDGE.

Return of Gen. John C. Breckinridge.

His Reception by his Friends and Neighbors.

He is Serenaded and makes a Speech.

From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

LEXINGTON, KY., March 9, 1869.

Mr. John C. Breckinridge comes back to Kentucky a man of commanding stature, with a face that women call handsome and men intellectual and strong, with the same eagle eye that your readers have seen in pictures of him as a Confederate Major-General. His cheeks are square from the cheek bones down, complexion ruddy and almost florid, mustache and chopped goatee of mixed gray and sandy, forehead seamed with lines of thought and care, and hair very gray, with much more of gray than any of us remember in our recollection of him. In his commanding personal appearance, his stature of near six feet, he reminds us of the John C. Breckinridge of military fame. But in place of the gray, gold and silver of his warlike days, he wears a plain dark suit of civilian's clothes, and in all his foreign experience he has not forgotten the cloak that Kentuckians love in common with Spaniards.

Gen. Breckinridge left Covington this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, with as much privacy as possible. I understand that Mr. Wash. McLean, of the Enquirer, accompanied him to the train, after having been his host in Cincinnati. He had hoped to avoid recognition, in a great measure, and to this end word had been given out that he had already passed down, and that he had gone by the way of Louisville. All along the line of the road, from Covington to Lexington, the stations had been visited by anxious and expectant crowds for two days, all desirous of catching a glimpse of the man who, as a Winchester lawyer said to me to-day, "was more loved by Kentuckians than any living man."

The General, in company with his wife, occupied seats in the rear car, and at all the small stations between Cincinnati and Cynthiana, those who had waited and watched for him gathered around the car, and forced him to exchange words with them. At Cynthiana, the first important stopping place, the crowd cheered him and demanded his appearance on the rear platform. Said one of the observers; "God bless him; he looks better than when we fought together." Crowds made their way into the car and took him by the hand. To all he was the urbane, gentlemanly Breckinridge of old, but to all he said: "Gentlemen, you must excuse me for being quiet; I am here by permission, and it is my request that I be allowed to pass quietly." But he had a kind word from the heart for many an old acquaintance, and more than once his eyes filled as old times forced themselves upon his mind. Said he; "I am glad to get back to my home once more. It is nearly eight years since I was here." When asked if the old scenes were familiar to him, he answered "yes," and then dived with some personal friends into many reminiscences of the past, and many personal recollections of old associations.

At Paris the demonstration exceeded even that at Cynthiana. Despite the rain, there was a large crowd on the platform, and many calls for his appearance. After shaking hands at the window, he could not resist the demands for his appearance on the platform, and put on his cloak and went out. There was wonderful shaking of hands, and many words of kindness. "How is my old friend, Col. H.?" said he. "He is one of the oldest friends, and when I ask for him I ask for all." Here, again, Gen. Breckinridge assured them of his desire for quiet, as he was here on permission. He had many kindly words of greeting, such as "God bless you," "General, it does the heart good to see you," "Young as ever," etc. The General replied that he was well, and glad to get back, but felt older, and certainly had grown gray. Col. Woodford, of the Southern Hotel, met the General at Cynthiana, and introduced many to him, among them an Ohioan, who said he never saw the General, but voted for him over there.

A conversation sprung up about the Cabinet. As to Stewart, Gen. Breckinridge said, "He thinks, doubtless, he will make a good Secretary, and so he may, as he has head enough to acquire a big fortune for himself, but it was strange they never thought of that law. Sumner would never have forgiven himself for not being the first to find that out." The General refused a pressing invitation to stay at Paris, and left the crowd there waving him adieu, and pushed on for Lexington. As he neared Lexington, this returned exile peered out into the gathering night to catch the familiar objects of childhood days, and recognized many a one as he sped onward, and spoke of them as friends who gathered around him. "Nearly eight years ago," said he twice in soliloquy, as old landmarks sped behind, and then was silent.

At Lexington station the waiting crowd peered into the cars, and when he appeared cheered, "three cheers for Gen. Breckinridge." The object of the cheers, modest as ever, simply shook hands and pushed his way to a carriage with his wife, and with cheers following him drove to Will Breckinridge's residence, his home for a time, where all the evening a crowd of visitors and admirers congratulated him. He was reticent as to politics, and his friends did not speak much of the past, but welcomed him as one simply returned home from a long absence—one much loved and long expected. To reporters he said he did not want publicity—only quiet. A serenade was arranged, but a heavy rain prevented up to 10 o'clock. The General had determined to simply return thanks in ten or fifteen words.

THE SERENADE OF GEN. BRECKINRIDGE AND HIS SPEECH.

Despite the rain, a serenade took place at half-past ten to-night, preceded by bonfires and rockets. A large crowd, preceded by a band, assembled in front of the house, the band playing and the people cheering for Gen. Breckinridge. When the band had ceased playing "Home, Sweet Home," somebody called for "Hail to the Chief," and the crowd demanded "Dixie." The rain was falling in torrents, then, but there were loud calls of "Down, umbrellas," and down went umbrellas, and up went cheers into the rain. At this point Gen. Breckinridge appeared, and, amid deafening cheers, commenced speaking. His remarks attracted close attention, and were greeted at the close with rounds of cheers. Gen. Breckinridge said:

"Fellow Citizens—In returning home after so long an absence, I would be a very strange being if I were insensible to this very cordial reception from my friends and neighbors. I feel it deeply, and I thank you sincerely. Recently I have observed that it is very difficult for persons in my situation to pursue that line of conduct that they may wish to pursue. Nevertheless it may be proper to say that I accept this informal, but most cordial, welcome as purely personal, and containing no particle of political significance. [A voice, "That's right."] Indeed, I can and will say that the tremendous events of the last eight years have had a great tendency to deaden, if not destroy, old party feelings, and for myself I can truly declare that I no more feel the political excitements that marked the scenes of my former years than if I were an extinct volcano. I will not now say more, except to express the pleasure that I feel in coming back to the people whom I so dearly loved."

—A family in Gloucester, Mass., were violently poisoned from eating partridges, which it was supposed had fed on poisonous berries.

TEXAS.

The New Constitution Adopted by the Convention.

No Disfranchisement on Account of Color or Rebellion.

From the Marshall (Texas) Flag of the 4th inst. we extract the following synopsis of the new Constitution for Texas adopted by a majority of the late Convention. It seems to meet with very general favor save from the bitter few who follow the fortunes of Jack Hamilton. These are clamorous against it, and take no pains to conceal the fact that their opposition to it is owing to the clause giving the late rebels the privileges elsewhere denied them:

Legislature not to exceed ninety members; Senate not to exceed thirty members; per diem of members $8; Lieutenant Governor double this amount; to meet at Austin second Monday in September, 1869; members elected for two years; Governor and Lieutenant Governor to hold office for four years; salary of Governor to be $5000 per annum; each member to be paid $6 for every twenty-five miles actually traveled in reaching the capital.

The election for State and county officers (to be elected by the people) on the first Monday in July, 1869, at the same time the Constitution to be sumbitted to the registered voters for their acceptance or rejection. Members of the Lower House of Congress to be elected at the same time.

District Attorneys and District Clerks to be elected by the people; the Clerks of the District Court are to discharge the duties of Clerks of the Police or County Courts.

The County Courts are to be composed of five Justices of the Peace for each county, the Justice elected at the county seat is to be Chairman of the County Court, and is to keep his office at the county seat.

The Justices are to be Assessors of the State and county taxes in their respective districts, each county to be divided into five districts.

The District Judges to hold their offices for eight years, salary $3500 per annum.

Supreme and District Judges to be nominated by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate.

The powers heretofore exercised by the County Court, as a Court of Probate, are conferred on the District Courts, the District Court to be held three times a year; except in cases of contest as to law or facts The Clerk of the District is to make, in vacation, all necessary orders, pertaining to the settlement of estates of deceased persons, lunatics, minors, etc.

The number of Districts will be greatly increased, on account of the increase of jurisdiction.

There is to be a superintendent of education, to be appointed by the Governor, salary $2000 per annum. The Attorney General is to be appointed by the Governor; salary $3000 per annum.

The homestead exemption is 200 acres of land in the country; also, city or town lots, in value not to exceed $5000, exclusive of improvements.

There is a provision that no statute of limitation shall be counted from 28th of January, 1861, up to the time of the acceptance of the Constitution by the Congress of the United States.

No lands to be sold for taxes, unless condemned by a court of competent jurisdiction, and the land to be sold in suitable lots so as not to sacrifice the entire tract. Sales thus made are to pass the title.

One-fourth of the State tax is to be set apart for the support of the common school, also a poll tax of a dollar for the same purpose.

There is a provision also for a road tax, the old system of working roads done away with.

There is also a provision in favor of mechanics to enable them to enforce a lien on the homestead or other property.

Persons who are qualified electors are also qualified jurors.

The first election to be held by the registered voters. There will be a new registration by the commanding general under the laws of Congress.

DISPATCHES received last night state that the States of Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Georgia have ratified the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

THE NEWS.

Among the news in this issue the account of the arrival home of Gen. JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE, will attract attention. Also the telegraphic dispatch recounting the interview of the Georgia Radical delegation with President GRANT.

RE-OPENING THE GREAT HIGHWAY.

There are few who do not remember, when the Mississippi was the great highway of the West and Southwest, how many pleasant reunions were enjoyed in the saloons of our palatial steamers—how bridal parties made their first essays in the voyage of life—how they glided over the turbid waves, not permitting themselves to dream of the peril that surrounded them, in the treacherous waters, the explosive steam, the combustible cargo and the recklessness of pilots and engineers. Those were halcyon days—before the routes of railroad travel were established. The traveler (barring accidents) could take passage upon any of the magnificent steamers that plied between Memphis and New Orleans, and quietly enjoy all the comforts and luxuries of a first class hotel, at little more cost than his hotel fare during the time that he was making the trip. He lost no sleep, suffered no discomforts or exposure, and was scarcely conscious of the hours that had elapsed between his departure from the Bluff City and his arrival in the Crescent. For various reasons, these really magnificent arrangements of travel, which were incomparably superior to anything which modern steam has supplied, if the journey could be performed with the same speed and safety, have gradually been abandoned. Our river steamers are no longer crowded with festive parties, with youth and beauty, plucking pleasure from the brilliant and enlivening incidents of the voyage, and listening to the fond whispers of future happiness which seemed to swell with the wave, grow brighter with its silvery sparkle and catch inspiration from the orange blossom which greeted the eye and spread its fragrance on the air, for the gay revellers on the decks of the floating palaces. The speed of these packets was distanced by the railroad car. And the conviction has fastened upon the public mind that death or mutilation were much more probable on the river, than on the land. But would it not be a blessed consummation to restore these comforts of travel and to reopen this almost disused highway, which crowned our then youthful city, as the queen of the upper section of the lower Mississippi? If we could insure both speed and safety to this mode of travel and again witness the social reunions, the brilliant assemblages and the splendid accommodations which once rendered life in the saloons of our first class packets "a joy forever," would not our city again resume its onward march, its important position and its flourishing river trade?

It is to bring about this desirable result that Capt. D. DEHAVEN is now giving his unquenchable energies to furthering his well matured plans for constructing a line of river steamers, with low-pressure engines—hulls constructed so as to combine the strength of the Howe truss bridge with the compact compartments of the Great Eastern, and a series of cabin saloons which shall blend oriental magnificence with the comfort and quiet of a well ordered home. The low-pressure engine will unite speed with safety, carrying one-half the weight of steam, and increasing the power so as to halve the distance between distant points. It is the fate of all great enterprises, projected for the progress of mankind, to struggle through opposition and neglect. Steam locomotion, the most potent motor of modern times, had more than a century of struggle and opposition. The electric telegraph, the wonder of our century, wavered through many a contest and vicissitude before it was permitted to flash intelligence around the world, in advance of time. There is no enterprise or invention which has blessed mankind, that has not had its battles, its defeats and its victories The beneficent one of DEHAVEN is no exception. This high-hearted, clear-headed and gallant gentleman has persevered, amid rebuffs and discouragements, until he has almost reached the goal of his hopes and aspirations. But a little more material aid is required, and his books are yet open in our city for subscription to this truly great and noble enterprise. They are in the hands of Col. F. Y. ROCKETT, who is pushing his part of the scheme with the energy and pluck of a newspaper man. He proposes to receive subscriptions in land from those who have more than they can work and pay the taxes on. This feature in the plans of the Mississippi Navigation Company will work to the mutual advantage of land-owners and the Company. They can obtain loans upon the land, while the land-owner will receive stock which we truly believe will be a paying investment. In addition to this, the Company contemplate, when they get their line into operation, inducing emigrants to settle up these lands. It is obvious that they will have an advantage over ordinary land companies, in that they will possess the means of safely and economically transporting emigrants to their newly-purchased homes. The scheme shows practical sense, wisdom and judgment, and is conducted by men who "know no such word as fail," in their vocabulary.

We hope to see the gallant and genial DEHAVEN, who has projected and matured every detail of this magnificent project, in the course of the next season, on the deck of the first of his floating palaces, restoring to us our great highway of travel in more than pristine splendor and success, and enjoying the philanthropic comfort with which his labors will crown all his toils and solicitude. Will he permit us to suggest the names of the three first steamers of this new line of speed and safety? If so, we would name the first "The Orient," because it will be the moment for the rising sun of a brighter career for the Mississippi Valley. The second we would call "The Pioneer," for the reason that it will pioneer the true era of our awakened progress. The third should be christened "The Reindeer," noted for its sure-footed fleetness. And the packet line itself could not more appropriately be baptized by any other name than that of the father of the great enterprise, "The DEHAVEN Packet Line."

POSTPONEMENT OF THE BROWNSVILLE TERM OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

I see a statement in your paper of this morning, which is probably founded on a mistake of your informant as to the contemplated action of the Supreme Court, regarding the Court of Brownsville.

The statement implies that the Court has appointed a special term at Knoxville, which is to interfere with and postpone the regular term at Brownsville.

As this act of postponement would be a violation of the positive requirements of a statute of the State, the natural inference is, that it must be founded on mistake.

"Every Judge and Chancellor is required to hold the terms of his Court at the regular times appointed by law, unless prevented by sickness of himself or family, or by some other unavoidable necessity."—CODE, § 3987.

This clause occurs in a chapter which embraces many provisions expressly applicable to the Judges of the Supreme Court, which contains the only regulations on many points respecting them; and as it, by express terms, applies to all Judges, a Supreme Judge as well as others, it was evidently intended to make the duty obligatory on them.

"It is the duty of the Judges of the Supreme Court to hold ITS TERMS at the different places designated by law, until all the causes are determined, or otherwise disposed of, or until it becomes necessary to adjourn to hold court at another point."—CODE, §4510.

"But the court may sit upon its own adjournments, and hold its term at any time for the purpose of hearing and deciding the unfinished business."—CODE, §4511.

These sections, by regarding the coming of another term as an imperative necessity, to which even the completion of the business of a regular term must yield, settles the character and grade of the duty to hold the regular terms, while the latter of these sections only enables the Court to appropriate time not necessarily consumed in the regular terms to finishing the unfinished business. Yours,

LAWYER.

MEMPHIS, WEDNESDAY, March 9, 1869.

Our correspondent's objections are in order and worthy the consideration of the members of the Supreme Court. It is with Courts as with all the other affairs of life: regularity and system is of the highest consequence. The business of the Courts and lawyers of Memphis has been settled and arranged in view of a regular session of the Supreme Court. Courts have commenced winding up their business, and lawyers dropping causes which cannot be reached, have turned their attention to preparation for the higher Court. They have an immense business, suspended now for three years, in that high tribunal, several of the heavy causes argued there three years ago being still undetermined. The Court has failed to meet at the day—has failed to hold "either until the causes were disposed of, or until it became necessary to adjourn." The lawyers of Memphis yielding to kind sympathy with the Judges, have consented to these things, but the clients, whose rights they thus postponed, have not been consulted, and were only told that their causes were not reached. After many instances of patient endurance on the part of the members of the Memphis bar, it would seem to be tasking them too much to ask their consent to a farther postponement, when the whole time intervening before the regular term at Knoxville will be insufficient to clear the Memphis docket alone, and the remaining business of the Western Division will be necessarily left over until another year.

It is true the business is behind at Knoxville; but the fault is one of the many sins of the late Executive, and does not lie with the Court. If a proper appointment of a lawyer had been made last fall, instead of a politician who was unwilling to give up his appointment until he saw whether he would be selected to Congress, the Court would have gone on, and the failure should be placed on the shoulders of the right man. Let the evil fall at its source; but we have suffered so much that not a day ought to be taken from that part of our term in which men can work. When the summer is far spent, and the Court and bar are worn out, let the Judges anticipate the regular term at Knoxville by a few weeks, and gather health and make up lost time in the invigorating atmosphere of that city.

The Judges of the Supreme Court of this State, before the war, were an example to be followed in this respect. On the first day of every term the business opened and proceeded, and woe to the lawyer who was not ready with his causes. The stringency of their rule was sometimes subject of complaint, but they literally fulfilled the obligation of the law, and now that the little occasional asperities of business has worn away, the promptness and dispatch of that day look like a golden age of the law. With many high qualities which the bar appreciate, the present Court will surely not be wanting in adherence to the imperative obligation of the statute, and will not fail to add to their other virtues punctuality.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 9, 1869.

THE CABINET QUESTION

Is still undergoing the tedious manipulations which have prevailed for the past few days, and it will be a wonder if the knots into which it is hourly being tied, do not compel almost an entire reorganization. The resignation of Mr. Stewart as Secretary of the Treasury, which I stated in dispatches of Sunday night had been offered, has at last been accepted by President Grant, and Mr. Stewart goes home to New York to-morrow, after a brief but brilliant career This much has therefore been accomplished.

STEWART ASTONISHED.

The manner of doing it was this: Stewart and Judge Hilton early repaired to the White House, this morning, and the resignation, together with the assignments of the Stewart interest in the profits of Stewart & Co's. business, was laid before the President. The latter said he had thought the matter over very earnestly, and his embarrassments were very severe and trying. He desired very sincerely to retain Mr. Stewart in the Cabinet, and had done all he could to effect that end, but that he found only one way out of the trouble, and that was the acceptance of the resignation, and that he had decided to do. This determination, it seems, fell upon Mr. Stewart like a thunderbolt. He had, notwithstanding the opposition which was everywhere raising up, cherished the belief that his assignment of profits would unlock the whole problem, even though he had been advised of difficulty by the leading lawyers and statesmen of the country. But the President, while expressing the deepest regret and assurances of the warmest regard was inexorable, and Stewart had to succumb.

BOUTWELL NEXT.

Now Boutwell will go in, as I have all along asserted he would do, and his appointment will prevent the continuance of Judge Hoar in the Cabinet, as it is the President's intention not to have two Cabinet officers from the same State.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The favored man for Attorney General is at present in some doubt; and, in consequence of some additional trouble, which it is just now impossible to fathom, other changes are likely to follow much sooner than was expected.

THE NEW YORK INFLUENCE.

There is no doubt that Stewart and the whole New York moneyed influence is making every effort to defeat Boutwell and secure the Treasury to a New York man. There are many who believe it will succeed, but Boutwell seems yet to retain his preponderating strength.

WASHBURNE GOING OUT TOO.

I am informed, on very good authority, that Washburne will to-morrow retire from the State Department, and that the name of his successor will be sent to the Senate before its adjournment in the afternoon. Nobody tries to guess the man, and the information may be premature.

CHANGE IN THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

It is also asserted that Gen. Schofield, in consequence of Gen. Sherman's occupancy of the War Department, and absorption of the whole army staff, through the orders of to-day, will to-morrow tender his withdrawal from the War Office. Gen. Rawlings, late chief of Grant's staff, is mentioned as Schofield's probable successor.

JUDGE HOAR'S CASE.

In regard to Judge Hoar, he is to be compensated for his resignation by a place on the United States Court Bench, which will be vacant upon the passage of Mr. Wilson's bill to retire Justices when they reach the age of seventy, the bill being likely to pass during the present session. The remainder of the Court news may be stated as follows: A special Cabinet meeting is to be held to-morrow, at which is to be considered a list of foreign appointments which has been prepared by the President. According to this list ex-Gov. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, is to be Minister to Russia, Mr. Motley Minister to Austria, Mr. Bancroft to remain as Minister to Prussia, and Mr. Washburne to go as Minister to France. It is also said that the name of James D. Taylor is to be sent in as Postmaster at New York.

HON. ADOLPH BORIE,

the new Secretary of the Navy, arrived here last evening from Philadelphia. About half past ten o'clock this forenoon he appeared at the Executive mansion, and was immediately shown to the President's office, where he was sworn in as Secretary of the Navy by Chief Justice Carter, of the District Supreme Court, and will assume charge of the department to-morrow. Mr. Borie, after taking the oath of office, remained in consultation with the President for a short time. He then repaired to the reception room, where he was introduced to many Senators, Representatives and prominent persons who happened to be present. Secretary Borie is forty-eight years of age, about five feet six inches high, and wears short white whiskers. His hair is iron gray, and his eyes are dark hazel and very bright and keen. He is very courteous and gentlemanly in his manner, and easily approached. He bears a strong resemblance to Hon. Elisha Foote, Commissioner of Patents, and is very neat in his personal appearance.

He was entirely innocent of any knowledge of any intention upon the part of the President to call him to a seat in the Cabinet until after the nominations were sent to the Senate on Friday. While at the Executive mansion this morning he took a careful survey of the building, not having been there since the administration of Gen. Jackson when he dined with the old hero.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

It is expected that President Grant and Secretary Washburne will soon go to work on the foreign missions.

Gov. Curtin is to be Minister to Russia. Motley goes back to Austria. Bancroft will remain in Prussia. Washburne goes to France.

THE PRESS AND STEWART.

The New York Post came out this evening in favor of Mr. Stewart's retention in the Treasury Department. Mr. Stewart's dry goods establishment has sent in the past two days a large amount of advertising to the papers which support him. The Commercial Advertiser is moderately against Stewart, while the World and Tribune vigorously oppose his assumption of office under any circumstances. There is a calmer feeling since Mr. Stewart's declination was announced.

GRANT REBUKED AND SUBMISSIVE.

The Republican leaders say that Grant has a sharp rebuke for his assumption, and that they will not be too hard on him. Private reports from Washington say that Grant is excessively mortified, and now very willing to take advice as well as horses.

GENERAL HANCOCK.

Gen. Hancock's friends in this city are very indignant at his banishment to Dakotah, and are about to make an effort to induce him to accept the Democratic nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania.

THE RECONSTRUCTION COMMITTEE.

It was thought the Reconstruction Committee would not be revived, as there really existed no necessity for this offspring of the war and partisan rancor. The impression, however, to-day is that this committee will be revived, and furthermore, that the appointment of military officers such as Sheridan, Reynolds, and that class who have demonstrated their hatred of the South, will give said committee material to work upon. The South is not sufficiently reconstructed to meet the views of the intense Radicals.

REMOVED.

The President to-day removed Chauncy H. Snow, one of the publishers of the Intelligencer, as Government Director of the Union Pacific Railroad. Snow has in course of preparation a report denouncing the construction and operation of the road in unmeasured terms.

THE TENURE-OF-OFFICE.

The repeal of the tenure-of-office bill to-day in the House, by a majority so large, is having its effect on Senators. The Senate will undoubtedly make a virtue of necessity and promptly pass the House bill. Several leading Radical Senators would oppose it if they dared, but all, or nearly all, will now float with the current, and thus, almost before Andrew Johnson departs from the Federal city, one of his vetoes, the most offensive to Radicals, is justified.

HOUSE COMMITTEES.

The House has adjourned until Friday, in order to give the Speaker more time to arrange the standing committees. To-day three of the special committees were authorized, which will give as wide a range for chairmanship as existed in the last Congress. The delay in the Cabinet also causes delay in selecting the committees. If Mr. Boutwell does not go into the Cabinet, he will be made chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

THE MISSOURI RADICALS

have become furious over the President's determination to fill all the St. Louis offices with his personal friends and to utterly ignore the slate prepared by the Congressional delegation. Schurz is very indignant. Grant told him he (Grant) had lived longer in Missouri than the new Senator from that State.

—Meyerbeer will be unusually prominent in our present operatic season, Maretzek having already produced his "Africaine" and "Robert le Diable," and promising "L'Etoile du Nord," "Les Huguenots" and "Le Prophete."

By Telegraph

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The President to-day nominated to the Senate George S. Boutwell, of Mass., as Secretary of the Treasury; Hamilton Fish, of New York, as Secretary of State; Gen. John A. Rawlings, as Secretary of War; E. B. Washburne, of Illinois, as Minister to France; Frank Moon, as Assistant Secretary of the Legation of France, and A. G. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, as Minister to St. Petersburg.

A report prevails that Maj.-Gen. Schofield will be assigned to the command of the Pacific coast, vice Gen. Halleck.

Mr. Binckley attempted an assault on Mr. Rollins to-day in the street.

Secretary Washburne resigned by reason of continued ill health.

A delegation of the Radical members of the Legislature, headed by Foster Blodgett, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, and accompanied by J. M. Cliff, member of Congress, Colonel Hopkins, Col. Prince and Messrs. H. M. Turner, J. M. Sims, two of the lately expelled members of the Georgia Legislature, waited on the President about 3 o'clock this afternoon, to present the resolutions of the Republican State Convention, held on the 5th instant, setting forth their grievances and sufferings, and asking that the Reconstruction Laws and the act of admission of June 25th, 1868, be literally complied with.

The delegation was received in the ante-room by Gen. Dent, and after waiting a short time were presented to the President in his private office, and Blodgett addressed him on the subject of their visit. The points presented for the consideration of the President are: First. The truthfulness of their grievances and the reasons therefor. Second. They point out the remedies therefor. Third. They earnestly, urgently and most respectfully ask Congress and the President to apply the remedies.

After shaking hands with the delegation individually, Grant listened to the address of Blodgett, and on its conclusion, said he could not make any reply to what had been said, at present, as it was a matter which he would have to think about and talk over. He wanted to say one thing very much; that was, all classes of citizens would be protected in their opinions everywhere, and he desired to see the speedy establishment of law and order in the South. He had seen in the papers that the Legislature of Georgia were to-day going to vote on the 14th amendment, and inquired how they would dispose of it. Mr. Blodgett replied that they would pass it, as the Democrats in the Legislature had informed him that this would be the case; as Congress had inflicted negro suffrage on them, they were now going to try to inflict it on the d—d Yankees. The President smiled, and said that was more than he had expected, and he seemed pleased at the prospect of so easy a solution of the vexed question. The interview then terminated.

The crowd of visitors at the Executive mansion to-day was greater than any day since the President entered upon the duties of his office. Private interviews were granted to a great many of the callers, including Senators Cole, Cragin, Kellogg, Sumner, Drake, Schurz, Williams, Stewart, Fowler, of Tennessee, Geo. Reid, of Florida, and also many Representatives, among them Banks, Hawley, Parin, Darling, and others. Besides these, a vast number of persons were admitted to the President's office before twelve o'clock, the hour for closing the doors to visitors.

Secretary Cox received a large number of visitors, at the Interior Department, this morning.

Commissioner Delano was completely overrun with callers.

The Senate this morning having been in Executive session, a few minutes, confirmed Washburne as Minister to France, in place of Dix, resigned; also Boutwell, as Secretary of the Treasury; Rawlings, as Secretary of War; and Fish as Secretary of State. The following names were also sent in to-day by the President: James Longstreet, as Surveyor of the Port of New Orleans; and Jas. F. Carey, as Collector of Customs for the Port of New Orleans. Gov. Curtin's name was not sent in as Minister to Russia.

No change has been made in the Navy Department by Secretary Borie. He was engaged the greater portion of the day with Admiral Porter, in acquainting himself with the duties pertaining to the Department, and the necessary changes to be made.

Among the applicants for Postmaster of Washington is Mrs. Josephine Griffiny, a prominent advocate of female suffrage.

The removal of the Internal Revenue Bureau to the north end of the Treasury Department was commenced this evening, but it will probably be a week or ten days before the entire clerical force are in their new quarters.

The Diplomatic Corps called upon the President at 2 o'clock, and were received in the Blue Room. The ceremonies were entirely private. Secretary Washburne presented the visitors to the President. The attendance was general, and the interview agreeable.

Baron Geralt said: "Mr. President—The representatives of Foreign nations accredited to the Government of the United States, have the honor on this occasion to renew the assurances of their sincere wishes for the welfare of your Excellency, and of the nation which has entrusted to you the executive power of the Government of the United States; and in the name of my colleagues, I express the most sincere hope that the friendly relations now existing between the United States and other nations, will be maintained under your administration. Such, Mr. President, will be the aim of our most earnest and constant endeavors." To which the President replied: "Baron Geralt, and gentlemen of the Diplomatic Corps: I heartily thank you for the kind expression of your good wishes for my welfare, and that of the nation which has chosen me for its Chief Magistrate, you may be assured that it shall be my constant endeavor to maintain those relations of peace and friendship which now exist between the United States and the countries which you respectively represent, a purpose which I am happy to have from you will be fully reciprocated." The Diplomatic Corps then withdrew.

BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, March 11.—Ex-President Johnson arrived as the guest of the city about 11 o'clock to-day. A committee of invitation on the part of the Common Council accompanied him from Washington, and the other members of the Council met him at Annapolis Junction. On arriving at Camden Station he was met by Gov. Bowie and other State officials, and Mayor Banks and a number of city officers. The procession had already formed on Eutaw street, and the line of march was soon taken up. A squad of cavalry headed the procession, followed by the 5th regiment of Maryland National Guard, with full bands. Following the regiment was an open carriage containing Ex President Johnson, Gov. Bowie and Mayor Banks. Next followed the 3d regiment of Maryland militia, distinguished guests, and the city authorities. Among the former was Hon. Garrett Davis, of Kentucky, Mr. Golladay, M. C. from Kentucky, Mr. Eldridge, M. C. from Wisconsin, Mr. Archer, M. C. from Maryland, and others, and the Fire Department with seven steamers, and the Hook and Ladder Companies in strong force, followed by the police force. All along the entire line of March through Eutaw, Monument, Egar, Nisquett, Baltimore and Gay streets to the Exchange, dense crowds of people filled the sidewalks. The windows and balconies of the buildings were crowded with ladies. The welcome was cordial and the day was bright and bracing. During the afternoon Mr. Johnson held a reception at the Exchange, and thousands called on him.

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, March 11.—The steamboat Cuba No. 3, sunk in Red river, between Shreveport and Jefferson, on the 9th, with 580 bales of cotton. The boat is a total loss.

A meeting of the parties interested is called at the Chamber of Commerce to-morrow, to take steps to commence the sale of cotton for gold.

The Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, to whom was submitted the memorial and petition from the Philadelphia sugar refiners to Congress, for an increase of the duties on sugar, report that the present condition of the sugar refining interests do not seem to require Congressional aid, and that the sugar planting interests of the South appears prosperous enough under the present tariff not to render an additional duty necessary, and also that the general sentiment of the people is hardly favorable to a higher duty on sugar, and consequently they cannot recommend a petition to Congress for higher duties on any grade of sugar. The report of the Committee was adopted in the form of resolutions.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Consumption.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY RECENTLY published an article on this dreadful malady, which attracted considerable attention, not only from the high character of the periodical in which it appeared, but likewise from the nature of the remedies indicated. Two instances are given where the patients seemed in the last stages, and yet by a mode of treatment at once simple, natural and of easy application, the most unlooked for and happy results followed. In so delicate a matter—where health and life are at stake—we do not feel warranted in recommending remedies upon unprofessional dicta; and do not consider ourselves as deviating from sound principles when we call attention to Doctors Tichenor & Gabbert, who come recommended to this community with high testimonials of professional skill, and a record of unprecedented success in the speciality to which they have devoted themselves. Those gentlemen have received certificates—the originals of which are accessible to interested parties—demonstrating, not only their high character, conscientiousness and capacity, but likewise proving the efficacy of their mode of treatment. This insidious malady should not be neglected, even where outward indications cause little or no apprehension—much less, where deep-seated disease has manifested itself. We would at least advise a call upon Drs. Tichenor & Gabbert, No. 8 Royal street, up-stairs, whose opinion and advice—judging from evidence before us—must be of service to all laboring under pulmonary affections.
Dr. GABBERT, partner of Dr. Tichenor, can be found for ten or twenty days at Dr. Hewitt's office, 227 Second street, Memphis. mh12

THE STAR CHAMBER.

Secret Session of the Citizens' Union.

They Determine to "go for" Ald McDavitt and the First National.

Eminent Counsel Engaged.

The Citizens' Union, disgusted with the reports made of their proceedings when they met in open council, determined some days ago to hold all of their meetings and pow-wows hereafter in secret.

Accordingly, yesterday, the "secret word" was passed around, and the self-constituted watch dogs of the public moneys, goods and chattels, notified to assemble at the office of the People's Insurance Company, to take into consideration matters of the very gravest import. What the proceedings were is not necessary to repeat, and we did not take the trouble to learn, though we could have done so with ease. We know, however, that it was determined to enjoin the city immediately from the issuance of bonds lately voted. Eminent counsel have been engaged—Gen. Chalmers, Judge Wright and others—and suit is to be entered immediately against the First National Bank and ex-Chairman of the Finance Committee, McDavitt, for alleged frauds in the disposal of the last million of the city's bonds. This is to be done instanter, so we may look for lively times.

CRIMINAL INTELLIGENCE.

—Police news was very light yesterday indeed. Scarcely anything of any consequence went on any of the dockets.

—Ed. Ferguson was lodged in the Second district stationhouse, charged with having stolen goods in his possession.

—The hall of J. H. Choate's house was entered yesterday and a fine overcoat stolen therefrom.

—Henry Robinson and Winter Payne, two colored sports, were arrested for gambling and having gambling devices on their persons.

—Mrs. Corrie and her daughter were arrested and locked up in the First District stationhouse for committing an assault on Mrs. Degnan.

—Frank Moody, a black man, was arrested for stealing a short piece of rope with a mule tied to it. He was escorted to the First District and given dry lodgings.

—Dave Mahoney was picked up with a pistol as big as a cannon, and a pair of brass knuckles as big as a boxing-glove, on his person. He was carried up to Mr. Powers' elegant new building, near the Louisville depot.

AMUSEMENTS.

NEW MEMPHIS THEATER.—Foul Play was repeated last night for the fourth time, with no apparent diminution of interest, and considering the weather, to a very fair house. Few plays ever put on our Memphis boards have taken better than Foul Play. The weather has been abominable ever since Miss Price has been in our city, and yet there has not been a poor house a single night. To-night, on the occasion of the first benefit of Miss Price, the play will be Leah, the forsaken—Miss P. as "Leah."

PANORAMA.—The snow and rain could not keep away the eager and expectant throng which crowded the New Assembly Hall last evening to see Bullard's great panorama of New York city. As the time draws near for its departure, the eagerness to see it increases among all classes. There are a great many of our friends who have been to see it several times—not satisfied with having seen it once. We learn that an exhibition will be given on Tuesday, 16th inst., for the benefit of Grace Church. This praiseworthy generosity on the part of the management will be gratefully remembered and appreciated by the friends of Grace Church and the public generally. We hope that our citizens will show themselves equally liberal, and purchase the tickets from the committee of ladies who have them for sale.

GAIETY.—Bob Hart, who is, without doubt, one of the greatest living negro delineators, is now at this theater. He is greeted by enthusiastic crowds nightly, who are entertained by him in his own inimitable way. Go and see him to-night.

THE VARIETIES.—The new bill and new stars take well, and a full house is present every night to greet them.

PERSONAL.

We are glad to announce to our friends that Mr. Sam. E. Cary, so long and favorably known as a railroad man, connected with the Mississippi Central road, has been appointed general ticket agent of the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis Railroad. His headquarters are at Jeffersonville, Ind.

We are glad to learn that the condition of Manager Ealey is very much improved. He has been very ill for some time, and at one time his life was despaired of.

JOE LOCKE has the latest. Give him a call at 236½ Main street. †

OUR Spring Styles now ready. Leidy & Co. †

SILKS and dress goods of every material cleaned and dyed at the Memphis Steam Dyeing Establishment, 262 Second street. †

LAST DAY HERE.—The Panorama of New York City exhibits at the New Assembly Hall, at 3½ and 8 o'clock this evening and night, for the last time here. Twelve thousand persons have visited it here, and all speak in its praise. It goes from here to New Orleans.

CURIOUS ACCIDENT.—Two street cars, close together, were proceeding up Main street yesterday toward the Louisville depot, when the first one stopped suddenly. The driver of the second, not paying attention to his business, did not stop his mules, and drove them smack into the door of the foremost car, breaking the door off its hinges, and frightening the lady passengers into conniptions. Such carelessness is criminal and ought to be punished.

DR. LANE, SURGEON CHIROPODIST, can be consulted at his rooms, Peabody Hotel, on all diseases of the Feet, such as Corns, Bunions, Callosities, Enlarged and Disabled Joints. He will alleviate by his instantaneous and painless process of effectually removing the worst cases of soft and hard Corns, Bunions, Nails penetrating the flesh, and all other excrescences of the Feet. His procedure is new and different from any hitherto introduced. When persons are suffering the most excruciating pain, he can give them instantaneous and permanent relief. Persons relieved of these excrescences experience the greatest comfort of human existence. He can remove the worst soft or hard Corn without any injury to the Feet, and removes the worst Bunions without injury to the metatarsus bone. †

PHLYCTENULAR OR SCROFULOUS OPTHALMIA.—This disease is distinguished from all other inflammations of the eye by symptoms so very striking that any one who has seen the disease a few times cannot mistake it. Slight redness, great intolerance of light, phlyctenulæ at the edge or on the surface of the cornea, and ulcers and specks resulting from these phlyctenulæ are the symptoms which characterize this opthalmia; a disease to which children are so liable that out of one hundred cases of inflammation of the eyes in young subjects ninety are of this kind. This opthalmia is very often the first manifestation of a scrofulous constitution, and neglected or mistreated frequently becomes the cause of permanently impaired vision, or even of entire loss of sight. We would advise the parents of children afflicted in this manner to take them immediately to Dr. Norris, the famous Southern oculist, 233 Main street, and have them cured. The Doctor cures all diseases of the eye and ear.

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

Meeting of Members of the Bar Yesterday.

Appointment of Committees.

In pursuance to the call published in the APPEAL yesterday morning, signed by about one hundred members of the bar of Memphis, about that number of lawyers assembled in the Law Courtroom, yesterday afternoon, immediately on the adjournment of the Court.

On motion, Mr. Chas Kortrecht was called to the Chair, and Mr. Channing Richards appointed Secretary.

Mr. Kortrecht, in taking his seat, expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred in the usual manner. He then stated the object of the meeting, viz: a Conference of the members of the bar for the purpose of taking action in regard to the nomination of candidates, to be voted for at the approaching judicial elections.

Judge Archie Wright moved that a committee, to consist of nine members of the bar, be appointed, whose duty it shall be to consider what action should be taken by the bar in the matter, and to report the same to a future meeting, in case they should deem it necessary.

The Chair was about to put the motion of Judge Wright to the meeting, when Judge Dickson arose and asked that the purport of the resolution be explained. He did not exactly see the objects which were to be submitted to the action of this committee, and would like to apprehend them. He, as one of a class—the bar—did not want to come into conflict with the people as a class, and he thought if the bar intended thus to dictate to the people in the choice of a candidate, such action would produce this result. If this committee was intended merely to ascertain the feelings of the people, and report accordingly, he was not opposed to it, but if it was intended as a "cut and dried" thing to nominate candidates, which the bar afterwards would force upon and dictate to the people, who are the electors, he was opposed to it. The programme of this meeting looked like a "cut and dried" thing, a put up job. He knew all about it before he came there, and had the programme right there in his pocket.

At this point the speaker was interrupted by Judge Wright, who said that neither the present meeting nor his resolution was proposed or gotten up in the spirit of dictation to the people. This was a thing which he wished studiously to avoid.

Judge Dickson then resumed his remarks. He wanted a free, fair and open thing for all. He wanted the people to be consulted. It was highly proper that the bar should consult and advise with the electors. (Judge Wright—"I agree with you perfectly, 'Squire. We agree on that point.") He wanted the different districts to meet and appoint delegates, and let the nomination be participated in by all the electors.

The Chair explained that such was the intention of the resolution, as he understood it. The question being called for, the resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

The Chair stated that in the nomination of this committee he understood the desire to be that he should act irrespective of party politics. "Certainly," was the reply from various quarters. After some delay the following names were announced as the committee: Hon. Archibald Wright, Col. John S. Kerr, M. T. Williamson, T. R. Smith, J. B. Woodward, Horace E. Tucker, J. O. Pierce, W. M. Randolph and M. D. Ewell.

Mr. Ewell stated that he had been but a short time in the city, and was not registered. He therefore hoped that the Chair would put somebody else in his place. Mr. L. E. Dyer was then nominated in place of Mr. Ewell.

On motion of Col. Kerr, the Chair and Secretary were added to the committee, and the Chair endowed with power to fill any vacancies that might occur in the committee.

Capt. Van Anderson would suggest that the committee should consist only of those who were present and took part in this meeting, for their absence from this meeting plainly indicates that they do not intend to co-operate with any future one.

The suggestion was not acted on, however.

Major Belcher moved that a Committee of Five members of the bar be appointed to call upon the members who had not signed the call, and ask them for their co-operation with those who had signed.

Just here a curious old fellow, who looked the very embodiment of one of Dickens' characters, astonished the assemblage by moving the insertion of the words, "Shelby county" after the word members of the bar. The amendment was accepted, and the Chair, about to put the motion thus amended to the meeting, when the queer old fellow, (whose name no one seemed to know), who had kept up a mouthing and growling, claimed the floor to "address the intelligence of the meeting, the bar of Memphis." His comical, curious, ancient looks, his mode of speech, and, withal, the manner in which he demanded to be allowed to address the "intelligence," proved too many for the risibles of some, and open laughter greeted him. This seemed to arouse his ire, and he appealed to the Chair to take the sense of the meeting by the "hiss" and "noes" as to whether he should speak or not. A little Babbel seemed here let loose, and amid cries of "Speech!" "Speech," "Question," and peels of laughter, the old fellow whipped out a bundle of papers and brought them to this reporter (whom he mistook for the Secretary of the meeting) and told him to read them. We refused, and he commenced his oration. The jeering continued and Mr. Barnes arose and said, "If the meeting was to be converted into an affair of ridicule he would beg leave to withdraw." This did not stop the noise much, and he repeated his remarks.

B. N. Hart, Esq, moved that Mr. Barnes be allowed to withdraw. (Laughter)

Somebody meanwhile moves to adjourn, and the motion is carried—the old fellow talking away all the time. The reporters pick up their papers and start to leave, when amid the uproar, the motion to adjourn is reconsidered, and the queer old fellow choked off

The Chair then put the question which was before the house before the adjournment and it was carried. The following gentlemen were named on the committee: Messrs. Belcher, Van Anderson, H. T. Dicks, L. F. Marye, Lewis Bond.

A motion to adjourn was made but defeated, and a gentleman, whose name we could not learn, introduced a series of resolutions declaring the action of this meeting anti Republican, inasmuch as it wished to dictate to voters.

On motion of B. N. Hart (or Van Anderson,) it was tabled by an unanimous vote.

Another motion to adjourn was lost, but was renewed a moment after, and prevailed—much to the disgust of two or three, or a half dozen, lawyers who had prepared speeches for the occasion, and who did not like to be disappointed.

AN INTERVIEW WITH GEN. FORREST.

A Talk about the Negro and Railroads.

[From the Courier-Journal]

NASHVILLE, March 9.—A few days ago, General Forrest, and Major Minor Merriwether, engineer of the levees on the Mississippi, were my companions part of the way from New Orleans. I have no doubt a sketch of some of the conversation which transpired between us will interest the readers of the Courier-Journal.

EMIGRATION TO THE SOUTH.

As we passed through beautiful tracts of country, lying waste, I asked General Forrest how it ever could be populated?

"With negroes," was his reply. "They are the best laborers we have ever had in the South. Those among us during the war behaved in such a manner that I shall always respect them for it, and I would not have one of mine back, nor have them enslaved, if I could. My house servants," continued he, "are with me yet in Memphis, and never would leave me."

"But," said I, "you have had the name of being hard on that 'peculiar'—"

"It is not true," he said with energy; "I have always felt kind towards them, and always treated them kindly. Even the 'Fort Pillow massacre' was investigated and the Federal officers, to a man, stated that I was not to blame. The fort never hauled down the flag—I cut it down with my own hands, and did all I could to stop the firing." "But how, General," continued I, "are you to repopulate with negroes?" "Get them from Africa," was his startling reply—"they'll improve after getting here; are the most imitative creatures in the world, and if you put them in squads of ten, with one experienced leader in each squad, they will soon revive our country. I want Northern men to come in here; and would protect any man who comes to build up the country with my life, but they won't come; Europeans won't come; then, I say, let's get Africans. By pursuing a liberal policy to them we can benefit them and they us. The prisoners taken in war over there can all be turned over to us, and emigrate and be freedmen here. I had an interest," continued he, "in the Wanderer, and we brought over 400; only six per cent. died. They were very fond of grasshoppers and bugs, and I taught them to eat cooked meat, and they were as good niggers as ever I had. When prejudice gets over our Government will foster this scheme; there is no need of a war of races. I want to see the whole country prosper. It's my country, and I don't intend to give it up as long as I can do anything to build it up. I am an American, and from the day I surrendered have been for the United States."

RAILROADS.

Major Merriwether and the General were returning from Selma, whither they had been to purchase the Selma and Marion Railroad. The arrangement was perfected, and the iron of the Newbern road was turned over to them—giving 50 miles of track now in running order, and iron for twelve miles more to begin the great Selma and Memphis road. They seemed in high spirits at the prospect of early success: "But," said I, "even though you should build it, the stock will be worthless, for I left New Orleans on the great Southern road with ten passengers, and even now that we have passed Jackson with the accumulation of two railroad feeders, we have only about seventy-five passengers." They replied that the roads running east and west would pay better because beyond the competition of the Mississippi river, and that a great trade would spring up between Memphis and the Atlantic cities of the South; that the Southern Pacific route would be in their line and hence their contemplated road, having these advantages and running through a very rich country, would pay better than roads running north and south. They believed that the Mississippi would be leveed again and become the great cotton country which it was before the war. This brought us to the conversation about population given above.

THE COURTS.

LAW COURT—H. S. Lee, Judge.—This Court convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and immediately proceeded with the trial of the case of Sturgiss vs. Jackson Insurance Company, continued from Wednesday, which resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff to the amount of $1239 83. The next case called was that of Potter vs. German National Bank Pending the trial of which Court adjourned until this morning, when the above case will be resumed, and if disposed of in time, Wednesday's calendar will then be taken up where left off.

The jury in the case of Johnson vs. Wicks et al. still fail to agree upon a verdict.

MUNICIPAL COURT—Geo. W. Waldran, Judge.—This Court was engaged the entire day yesterday with the case of McHenry vs. Mitchell, commenced Wednesday. The trial was concluded and the case given to the jury, but owing to the lateness of the hour no verdict was rendered.

To day the calendar published Wednesday will be called for trial, beginning with 1683, Terry vs. Rutland, et al.

CHANCERY COURT.—Wm. M. Smith, Chancellor.—To day is motion day. The roll will be called, commencing at A, after which the unfinished case of Shelton vs. Parham and the remainder of yesterday's calendar will be taken up and disposed of

The papers in the cases of Winchester vs. Smith, and Marri, administrator, vs. Peaggio et al., are wanted by the Court; parties having same will return them at once.

The Chancellor has decided the cases of Delarocke vs. Dromgoole, and La Fontaine vs. Gatti, in favor of complainants.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Wm. Hunter, Judge.—This Court was occupied yesterday in making up a jury in the case of State vs. Russer, indicted for the murder of Moses Hecht. To-day the trial will commence, and from the number of witnesses subpoenaed, it is thought that the case will continue for several days.

A SKILLFUL OPERATION.—A Compliment to a Skillful Chiropodist.—If any person entertained a doubt as to the skill of the gentleman which the following card has reference to, they may dispel it from their mind when they read the following communication. The writer is evidently enthusiastic; hear him:

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 11, 1869.

I cheerfully certify that Dr. Lane successfully removed seven corns and two bunions and operated on two inverted toe nails, and absolutely without pain or bleeding, soreness or cutting; but that part of feet the operated on was as natural and the skin as pliable as any other portion of the feet, for me at his rooms at the Peabody Hotel. He uses an instrument with skill and dexterity, and is a scientific manipulator. I gladly bear testimony to his skill.

STATE NEWS.

Miscellaneous.

—The citizens of the different neighborhoods will be pleased to learn that the postoffices at Donelson and White's Bend have been re-opened lately, and mails will run accordingly.

—The Banner says: We understand that Gov. Senter will not have anything to do with pardoning out convicts from the penitentiary, as has been the custom with his predecessor. He intends to leave it discretionary with the courts.

—Gov. Senter has issued a proclamation ordering an election to be held on Thursday, the 15th day of April, for a Chancellor of the Seventh Chancery District, which office was made vacant by the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Barry vs. Lauck.

—There are not over a hundred and fifty militia in Nashville at the present time. The Union and American of Wednesday says: "Gen. Cooper returned from the front yesterday. He laments the fact that his heroic veterans have been covered with more measles than glory since their arrival in Giles."

How Gov. Senter Construes the Modification of Martial Law.

Gov. Senter, in reply to a delegation of gentlemen from Giles county, who called upon him to know how to construe General Order No. 4, stated that it was his intention in promulgating the order to leave the laws and the civil executors of the laws untrammeled, and to authorize them to call upon the militia for aid in the execution of the law, whenever the civil remedies might prove or be likely to prove insufficient. In short he assured them that the militia was designed, under the same order, to operate in aid of, and as a protection to, the civil authorities, and not outside or in defiance of them, except in the case of offenses against the militia themselves. But he further said that this modification was based upon the assumed good faith of the civil authorities and the promised readiness of the citizens to bring offenders to trial, and that where persons known to have violated the law were permitted to go at large, without any attempt or effort to bring them to punishment, and upon refusal to do so, then, in such a case, it would be the duty of the militia to take jurisdiction and do what the civil authorities had failed or refused to do.

The sale has reached the enormous number of Five Millions of Bottles annually, and it is constantly increasing. It only shows what can be done with a really good medicine, and a systematic course of making it known. Perhaps no medicine in the world was ever so deservedly popular as the PLANTATION BITTERS. Go where you will, among the rich or poor, and you will always find these Bitters in use. Their merit has become an established fact, and we cordially recommend them in cases of dyspepsia, loss of appetite, chills and fever, headache, etc., etc.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, March 11, 1869.

FINANCE.

It is said that the Citizens' Union held a secret meeting yesterday, and that important events are to arise from it.

There was no material change in money matters to-day. Our bank officers did not seem to be fatigued with the amount of work imposed upon them, nor were they detained later than usual in balancing cash or making up their daily accounts, as is usual during some active days of the cotton season. The Exchange market is reported to be some easier—not much—but still the day upon which currency must set in upon its flow back to the source from which it came, has been postponed yet a little longer. It is hoped that some life may be infused into Cotton, and thereby the shipment of money be deferred indefinitely. Rates of Exchange are steadier. Buying at ⅛c discount and selling at par@⅛c premium.

City Scrip is firm. There is but little upon the market except what is held by speculators. Ledger Balances were bought to-day at 75c, selling at 78@80c.

County Warrants are rather quiet. Dealers offer but 70c, though one order for $2000 could not be filled at 72c. Brokers are generally well supplied.

Police Scrip is firm and scarce. Buying at 96c, selling at 98c.

In Gold we could learn of no large sales to-day. Brokers buy at 130½@131 and sell at 132.

Stock and Bonds are nominal, while operations in uncurrent Money are generally of a light character.

Gold opened in New York to-day at 132⅛, and closed at 131⅞. Carrying at 3 per cent. Sterling Exchange at 108¾ for 60 day bills. Money in fair demand at 7 per cent. on call. Governments opened firmer, with moderate demand, and at the noon call were steady, with slight advance, and closed firm and moderately active.

Sales of New Tennessee Bonds were reported at 65⅝c; old held at 67c, but no transactions.

The Stock market opened with prices irregular and remained unsettled throughout, closing as follows:

The New York Commercial Bulletin says: "It is understood that the bill prohibiting the certification of checks was signed by the late President. Inquiries made at Washington have resulted in a denial of this understanding; but the banks generally regard the bill as having become a law, and act accordingly. Some banks decline to recognize the law, until they have been officially nitofied of its adoption; others have discontinued certification entirely, but a majority find it necessary to become parties to observing it only in form. In some cases the banks give a "due bill" bill" to the customer desiring a certification, which bill is deposited, and becomes a basis for certification. In other cases a loan is made by the bank to the customer, and the amount deposited by him in the bank against which the check is certified. And in cases where brokers keep accounts in two or more banks, a check is drawn against one bank and deposited in the other, against which the latter certifies. The banks find no alternative between adopting these expedients and allowing their accounts to go to the State banks, which are free from this restriction. The statement is less favorable than was anticipated. The banks have lost $1,689,090 in legal tenders, and $1,345,000 in specie, making a total reduction in the reserve of $3,034. The decline of $2,611,000 in deposits warrants a reduction of $647,000 in the 25 per cent. reserve, so that the loss in surplus reserve is $2,389, with this loss in resources, however, the banks have increased their loans $717,000.

The authorities at the Bank of England have issued a circular calling attention to the fact that paper manufactured for various banking and mercantile firms, contains water marks and other devices peculiar to the paper which is prepared solely for the use of the bank, and reminding the paper manufacturers of the law which prohibits any such paper to be made or used.

The public debt statement for March 1, 1st, we published a few days ago, shows a decrease of $11,769,000 for the month, owing to the unusual increase in customs receipts from the excessive importations of merchandise. The coin balance shows a nominal increase of $13,-893,000, from which, however, must be deducted about $5,000,000 due March 1st for interest on the ten-forty bonds. The coin reported on hand is $98,741,260, from which must be deducted $28,775,560 for Gold certificates, leaving the actual amount of coin belonging to the Government $69,965,700. The currency balance is $16,823,529, so that with this ample amount of currency on hand and the incoming large receipts from internal revenue, Government will not require to sell Gold in order to raise currency. The following is a table of the changes on March 1, compared with February 1.

Total net debt	Decrease	$11,769,000
Coin in Treasury	Increase	10,009,000
Currency in Treasury	Decrease	58,000
Gold certificates	Decrease	3,884,000

The New York Commercial List, of a late date, says:

An early restoration of confidence and improved credit will set the scotched wheels of industry again in motion and give a fresh impulse to those wealth-begetting enterprises which have so long languished because they could not be prosecuted at a gain proportionate to the cost involved. A high degree of industrial commercial prosperity is scarcely to be expected until such time as the law making branch of the Government shall see fit to modify and simplify our revenue system, though a complete restoration of confidence is the prerequisite of the time, and the chief agency upon which we must rely for the development of the nation's resources and the creation of material wealth. With this element restored, capital will again be tempted from the speculative channels to which it has been so largely devoted, and made to perform its proper and legitimate functions in rescuing our national industry and commerce from the abyss of depression into which it has fallen, by holding out the incentive of profitable employment. The distinguishing features of the financial situation are the decided fall and declining tendency of gold, under the rise in the national credit, as indicated by the advance in five-twenties, at London, to 83⅜, and the depression and lower rates for exchange, consequent upon heavy remittances of bonds to Europe. It is estimated that fully 10,000,000 of the several issues of five-twenties have been purchased for foreign account during the last two or three days, and that the amount of these securities thus absorbed since the first of February closely approximates 50,000,000. While this movement is highly gratifying to our national pride, it is a matter of profound regret that so many hundreds of millions of these bonds have been secured on the other side of the Atlantic, at prices far below their intrinsic worth. That they will speedily go to the par of gold, there appears to be no doubt whatever.

The New York Tribune says that the duty on foreign salt is only 18 cents a 100 pounds. But salt is worth at Turks Island 10 cents and at Liverpool 8 cents per bushel of 85 pounds, so that the duty of only 18 cents per 100 pounds amounts to only 160 or 170 per cent. ad valorem.

COTTON.

The Cotton men of New Orleans hold a meeting to-day in order to consult upon the question of "Gold for Cotton." We hope that our factors, who are men of nerve, and who have shown their ability to hold Cotton, will also take some action in this matter.

At the opening in Liverpool, to-day, Cotton was weak; Uplands 12@12⅛d; Orleans 12⅛@12⅜d. It was dull at 1.20 p. m. and prices the same, and closed dull, with sales of 7000 bales. Uplands 12d, Orleans 12⅛@12⅜d.

The New York market opened dull and nominal. Low Middlings 28c. Uplands 29c. Good Middlings 30c.; and at 11 a. m. was lower and entirely nominal. Low Middlings 27⅞c. Uplands 28⅜. Good Middlings 29⅜. At noon it was dull and unchanged, but was again lower and dull at 1.45 p. m., with Low Middlings 27½c. Uplands 28⅛. Good Middlings 29½c, and closed dull and nominal. Quotations same.

Our market was more active than at any time for several days, and sales were made to the extent of nearly 2000 bales, upon a basis of 27½@27¾c for Middlings, two buyers alone having taken nearly 1000 bales up to 3 o'clock. Holders are very firm under the depressing news received from the East, and many of them are not offering to sell. We quote as follows:

Ordinary	25	@25½
Good Ordinary	26	@26½
Low Middlings	26½	@27
Middlings	27½
Strict Middlings	28
Good Middlings	29

TRADE.

The weather, which bid fair to clear off, last night, again changed for the worse to-day, and business consequently did not wear an active appearance. The demand for plantation supplies continues only moderate, while it was thought that at this stage of the season there would be a large demand for everything in this line. Meats are steady, but not at all firm as they should be, under the advices from above. Mess Pork is dull. There seems to be no inquiry for it. We quote Mess at $33 to 33 50 by the dray load, and $23 75 to 24 by the single bbl. Clear Bulk Sides are selling at 16⅞ to 17c. Clear Rib Sides 16½ to 16¾c. Rib Sides 15½ to 16c. Shoulders 13½c. There is but little Bacon in market, and the demand for it has not yet set in. Sugar and Molasses are firm. They have advanced in New Orleans, but no change so far has occurred here. Corn is steady at 75c on levee, and 78 to 80c in store. Oats are very quiet. White and Black are held at 75c to 80c. Bran and Hay are unchanged. Cornmeal is dull at $3 40 from the mills. Flour is dull, with fair stock of all grades, ranging from 6 to 11$ per bbl.

Potatoes are dull, and range from $2 75 to $4 50 per barrel—the latter for choice planting varieties. Chickens are in fair demand at 5 to $5 50 per dozen. Eggs are in good supply at 16 to 18c per dozen.

Cattle are dull, as are hogs also. The stock of dressed hogs in the market for the last day or two has been quite large, and prices irregular, ranging from 10½ to 12½ cents.

Mules and common work horses are in fair request and range from $125 to $250 per head.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

GAS WORKS, March 11.

The river fell in the past 24 hours, 12 inches. Now below high water mark, 17 feet 5 inches. CHAS. GOODWIN.

The weather is very disagreeable. We had, besides our usual quantity of rain, a little sprinkling of snow during the day. The Arkansas is rising. White river is swelling, and it would not astonish us to learn that late rains have caused a swell in the upper rivers.

Arrivals.

Steamer Robert Burns, Cincinnati.
" Darling, "
" G. W. Cheek, Osceola.
" Linton, St. Francis river.
" R. P. Converse, Moon Lake.
" Natoma, Friar's Point.

Departures.

Steamer Clifton, Cincinnati.
" G. W. Cheek, Osceola.
" Ben. Campbell, "
" Guidon, Arkansas river.
" W. A. Caldwell, " "
" Argosy, White river.
" Robert Burns, New Orleans.

In Port.

R. P. Converse, Darling, Linton, Natoma.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The towboat Argosy passed up yesterday for Cincinnati.

The R. P. Converse, which has been plying between Friar's Point and Moon Lake, came up yesterday, and is lying at the upper levee.

The Cuba No. 2 sunk in Red river on Tuesday, between Shreveport and Jefferson. She was on her way down, and had nearly 600 bales of cotton on board. No lives lost. Boat a total loss.

The Leni Leoti, Capt. Tom Berry, is the regular Arkansas river U. S. mail packet for Saturday. She goes to Little Rock and connects with the Fort Smith packets closely. Mr. Morrison is purser.

Capt. John Ford was in town yesterday. He was barely recognized by his friends—his hair having turned gray during his incarceration at Little Rock.

Capt. J. J. Cox was buried on Friday last, at Montgomery, with Masonic honors. A large number of his river friends accompanied the remains from Mobile.

The Linton, Capt. Ware, leaves tomorrow for all points on St. Francis river.

The Geo. W. Cheek is the regular Saturday packet for Osceola.

The G. A. Thompson, Capt. Alex. Frazier, will pass up for Cincinnati tomorrow. She wants cotton.

The Ruth will positively be here to leave for New Orleans, to-morrow at 9 a.m.

The gay steamer Natoma, Capt. Jim Lee, will back out to-day for Friar's Point and all way landings. She is "old reliable." B. F. Fields and Stack Lee are her secretaries.

The U. S. mail packet Liberty, Capt. Conley, with Jimmy Thompson and Charley Sharpe in the office, is the regular packet for all points along White river to-morrow. She connects with the Little Rock train.

The Dexter, Capt. Ed. Montgomery, will pass down this morning for New Orleans. She is an elegant new packet, and makes all way landings.

The Darling came in from Cincinnati, and leaves again on her return trip tomorrow. Carter is master, and Power clerk.

The Luminary, Capt. Conway, is the regular Vicksburg packet for Saturday. She leaves the wharfboat foot of Jefferson street.

Capt. Bill Blake will pass up to-day with his elegant Rubicon for Cairo and St. Louis. She makes connection with all trains. Alf. Grissom is her clerk.

The Belle St. Louis did not arrive to leave yesterday, but will get away at 10 o'clock this morning for St. Louis and all way landings. Mr. Baskette is her secretary.

In alluding to the new line of steamers between St. Louis and Shreveport, the News of the latter city says: The advantage to be derived by Shreveport from a direct trade with St. Louis, even if the insurance rates were not lower, are surely too evident to our business men to need being enforced by argument. "Competition is the life of trade," and the sooner Shreveport frees her trade from monopoly, the sooner will her prosperity and business enlarge. We hope the new boats will receive every encouragement from our merchants, and efforts put forth to secure them return freights. Memphis likewise presents some peculiar advantages for trade with this point.

Visscher, Editor in chief of the Richmond's Headlight, got left in Louisville. The Devil mounted the tripod and in an editorial intimated that "Vish." was drunk. Upon overtaking the boat the latter comes back at the boy in this style:

"And this is the return he makes us for taking him out of the alms house and bringing him up in the way he should go. For this we educated him in the mysteries of the catechism, and set before him a shining example of the truth of the axiom that 'virtue is its own reward.' A dog would not have served us so, if we had raised him from a pup as we did that boy. It is said that 'the way the twig is bent the tree is inclined,' and we have registered a solemn oath to bend that twig or perish in the attempt. We have thrashed him until we are black and blue, and our next course will be to put him down on deck and let the mules kick him a spell."

The St. Louis Democrat says of the Tennessee river trade and old steamboat men:

Before the war burst forth and all its alarms, our steamboat business with the Tennessee—which is said to rank as the sixth most important river on the continent—was a very good thing, giving employment to a considerable number of persons. All we mean at present is to divert our readers with some facts relating to men engaged in the St. Louis and Tennessee river trade.

Capt. P. D. Roddy, commanding the Julius H. Smith, afterwards General in the C. S. A., is engaged in business in New York. Geo. W. Brown, clerk of that boat, afterwards on Roddy's staff, in service of the C. S. A., is in Cincinnati, acting as general agent for two steamers engaged in the Tennessee trade, which run regularly with full cargoes.

S. H. Stickles, who built the Julius Smith, at Paducah, is manufacturing cotton goods at Cherokee, Ala.

Capt. Geo. W. Evans, who ran the Sallie Wood, is merchandizing at South Florence, Ala. He, like many others, acquired valuable experience of the hardships of life in the C. S. armies. Gen. Dixon, well known as clerk on several of the Tennessee boats, has long resided in Alabama, and is there still.

Matt. Evans, pilot, was wounded while piloting a boat on the Cumberland for the Federals, captured, and died in prison.

Jim McKinley, engineer, was in the Confederate service, and is now engineering on Tennessee packets.

Capt. Whitsett died during the war.

Ed. Till, mate on several of the boats, was wounded badly in the rebel service. He is still alive and honestly working for a living.

Dropping personalities for the present, we have to remind St. Louis merchants that the trade of the Tennessee is not to be sneezed at. We believe that the small town of Evansville sends up that river two loaded steamers per week. True, we are recovering our lost business in that direction, but is this the result of any effort or pecuniary investment of St. Louis merchants? Cincinnati is constantly represented along the river by competent drummers, said to be paid salaries of $2500. St. Louis has only two boats in the trade, and should have at this day four.

The distance from this point to Florence, Ala., is 500 miles, while from Cincinnati to Florence is 700 miles. The difference is much in favor of St. Louis.

WATCHES.

WALTHAM

Watches!

THE extensive use of these watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch-wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time-keepers.

The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham enable them to produce watches combining the best and latest improvements, and at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary.

☞ FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.

BUTTER.

THE

ECONOMY BUTTER CO

Ask the attention of all interested in the reduction of the extravagant cost of Butter, to their practical and economical system of making pure prime Butter by aid of the

EXTRACT OF BUTTER PLANT.

A brief allusion to the origin of this important discovery may not prove uninteresting. Among the authenticated records of the renowned Captain Cook's voyage around the world, is found the statement, that while sojourning for a short time on the Brazilian Coast of South America, he observed the natives using, in the preparation of their food, a peculiar oil, which, upon examination, he found to possess the appearance, taste and flavor of Butter; upon further inquiry, however, he ascertained that it was simply a substance that the natives distilled in a crude and imperfect manner from a rich and luxuriant plant that grew spontaneously and abundantly in that warm tropical country. A few years ago an eminent French chemist, while on a professional visit to the tropics, made numerous experiments with this remarkable production of nature, and succeeded in extracting a concentrated essence of the plant. The formula for its preparation, and the Sole Right for the sale in this country are the exclusive property of this company, by whom it was purchased from the original discoverer. We claim for this remarkable, yet simple and perfectly harmless preparation—

1st. That by its use a net gain of from 50 to 200 per cent. is made in the manufacture of Butter.

2d. That Butter, which from age or whatever cause, may be strong, rancid, streaked or coarse-grained, and comparatively useless for general use, by the aid of this Extract is restored to its original freshness and sweetness, fine grain and even color.

3d. By the use of this Extract, one pound of delicious, fresh Butter is actually made from one pint of milk.

4th. That a pure and excellent table Butter can be made, at a cost of from 15 to 20 cents per pound. The chief expense wherein being Butter, which is the essential base.

5th. That Butter manufactured by the aid of this Extract is equal in every respect to the best Butter made by the ordinary method.

6th. The Extract, after thorough analysis, by able chemists, is pronounced perfectly free from any deleterious substance, the ingredients being purely of a vegetable nature.

7th. In proof of the foregoing assertions, the factory of this company is making one ton of Butter per day, which meets with ready sale in the New York market, and is consumed from the tables of the first hotels, restaurants and private families in this city and elsewhere.

A sample package of the EXTRACT (sufficient to make fifty pounds of Butter), with full directions for use, will be sent to any address on the receipt of $1.

CAUTION.—As all articles of real merit are subject to spurious imitations, we would specially caution the public against counterfeits and worthless imitations, advertised as powders, compounds, etc., as the Extract of the Butter Plant is prepared and sold only by
